Spaces That Put People First

PLUS X AWARD Jury Honors Dauphin as Design Innovator 2026

Category: Human-Centered Workspaces

The modern workplace is no longer defined solely by efficiency or functionality. It has become a space for wellbeing, creativity, communication, and human connection. Dauphin understands this transformation with remarkable clarity and has established itself as a driving force behind a new generation of work environments.

With its forward-thinking solutions for contemporary workplaces, Dauphin successfully combines ergonomics, architectural quality, and emotional comfort into a holistic spatial experience. The company demonstrates how intelligent workspace concepts can positively influence not only productivity, but also health, motivation, and long-term quality of life.

What distinguishes Dauphin is its deep understanding of people within spaces. Rather than developing furniture as isolated objects, the company creates integrated workplace ecosystems that adapt to changing behaviors, hybrid working models, and evolving expectations of modern professional life. The result is an environment where movement, concentration, collaboration, and wellbeing exist in natural balance.

At a time when companies worldwide are redefining the purpose of the office, Dauphin delivers answers that are both visionary and practical. Its solutions reflect a new philosophy of work in which flexibility, sustainability, and human-centered thinking become essential elements of modern architecture and organizational culture.

The jury was particularly impressed by the company's ability to merge technological precision with emotional intelligence. Dauphin transforms workplaces into living environments that inspire people, strengthen interaction, and support healthier ways of working — without compromising aesthetics, quality, or functionality.

Through this holistic approach, Dauphin sets new international benchmarks for future-oriented workspaces and demonstrates how innovation can create meaningful impact far beyond the physical office itself.

"Dauphin represents a new era of workplace innovation in which people become the true center of architecture and functionality. The company creates environments that combine wellbeing, flexibility, and intelligent spatial thinking at an exceptionally high level." — PLUS X AWARD Jury
